"I've been trying to see you all week," said the patient over the phone. "When may I have an appointment?" "You must make a date with my secretary," replied the dentist. "I did; we had a swell evening; but I've still got to see you."

Morrison, the pastor delivered the address. A very happy summer picnic was held. The picnic was so successful that it was quite an extent but not enough to interfere with the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Klipsa Schmidt and family of Calgary spent the holiday in town the guests of Klipsa parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schmidt.

Miss C. Doyle a former teacher in the Gleichen school but now teaching in Medicine Hat spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

Alberta History

For two centuries before Confederation, the Hudson's Bay Company had control of the vast territory of Western Canada. In 1669, an arrangement whereby the company relinquished its charter to the Imperial Government and the great area was transferred to Canada. The company received three hundred thousand pounds, reservations around their trading posts and 1-20 of the land in the fertile areas.

The population then consisted of warring tribes of Indians of which the Blackfoot confederacy was the most important, the most warlike and the most intractable. There were scattered settlements of half-breeds who lived by the chase and a few white traders and some heroic missionaries. There was also an overflow of bad men from Montana into Southern Alberta who reaped the exploits which made Montana infamous. As has always been the case much lawlessness accompanied these conditions.

By devotion to duty and even-handed distribution of justice, the North west Mounted Police did much to suppress the liquor traffic and to protect the lives and property of the early settlers. The record of their success in carrying out these objectives and in establishing law and order in the great lone land was admirable and probably without parallel in the world's history. They were mobilized and sent westward to prevent such tragedies as the gruesome massacre in the Cypress Hills and so great was their success that the famous Chief of Chiefs of the Blackfoot confederacy said of them "They have protected us as the feathers protect the birds from the frosts of winter."

In the north western states, the Indians seemed to regard the American officers as their natural enemies. There was much bloodshed and many tragic clashes of which the Crow Dance is a good example. The incident is an example of the methods used by the Canadian police.

In 1876, some 3000 American Indians with tents and droves of horses crossed over and settled at Wood Mountain, near Fort Walsh. This made a great problem for the men in arctic and gold. On May 25, 1877, Little Child a Salteaux chief came to Fort Walsh and reported that his people then camping with the Assiniboines under Chief Crow Dance desired to leave. Crow Dance refused permission and with 250 of his warriors attacked the Salteaux, shooting 19 valuable dogs, cutting horses, knocking down men and frightening women and children by firing off guns and giving war whoops.

Crow Dance boasted that if his police came they would do the same to them.

Inspector Walsh, with 15 constables and Dr. Kitson, whose services might be badly needed, reached the camp at three o'clock on the morning after getting the report. With their guns ready, the handful of police rode swiftly into camp and before any shooting occurred, they had Crow Dance, Rolling Thunder, Spider and The Man Who Bend The Wood under arrest. It was made clear to all that no one could interfere with others who wished to leave the camp peacefully. The captured chiefs were taken to Fort Walsh for trial. Some were imprisoned and some pardoned.

In reporting the incident, Com. Irvine said: "I cannot speak to highly of Inspector Walsh's prompt conduct. It is a matter of congratulation that 15 men can ride out into an enormous camp of Indians and take out as prisoners 13 of their head men. This action will have a great effect on all Indians throughout the country."

The dreadful toll of level crossing accidents still is alarming, not only in Alberta but in other sections of the Dominion. Hardly a week passes but there are reports of this type of accident. Undoubtedly there is need of a speed-up in the program of eliminating these crossings, in the opinion of officials of the Alberta Motor Association. While federal, provincial and municipal authorities are making huge outlays annually in improving crossing conditions, there are many thousands of these level railway crossings in the Dominion. Each one constitutes a menace to traffic if there is a disregard of safety measures. While there have been many suggestions of educational campaigns to warn drivers to be more than ever on the alert at level crossings, it is claimed that other measures also are required. The need of buses coming to a full stop at these crossings as required by legislation, is an indication of the legislative trend to improve safety. After all, a close regard to the safety precautions would mean a lot in reducing crossing accidents.

Those who help to business, "Classified Advt. are neglected by many people. You may have something to sell, so why not tell the people about it otherwise you are less likely to retain possession of the article indefinitely, and perhaps it is just the article that some one else has been looking for. Or perhaps the suggestion will cause the owner to immediately make up his mind that it is something that he needs and must have. There is hardly a house hold in Gleichen but what has an article, or maybe a half-dozen articles, that could be disposed of to advantage, and yet these articles are retained, in many cases unused and in the way, when a small classified advertisement might possibly bring to the door a buyer. Classified ads is a business getter and should be used by everyone.

An Important Service

AS A LEADING AGRICULTURAL country Canada has advanced far in the training of experts in the various phases of scientific and technical agriculture. Almost every province has at least one agricultural college for the training of students and, in addition, the federal and provincial governments assist in many ways in spreading technical knowledge and information concerning improved methods of farming among Canadian farmers. Frequently parties of scientists and technical experts from other countries visit Canada to study what is being done here, and many Canadian agriculturists go abroad to gain wider knowledge of their work.

Very Active In This Work

In recent years it has become clear that one means of working for world peace and prosperity lies in helping people of less privileged countries than ours to improve living standards and to make the best use of their own land. The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations has been very active in this work and has done much to organize a technical agricultural service for countries which have need of such help. Representatives of the F.A.O. visited Canada recently and outlined plans for giving increased technical aid for economic development. Funds for such aid have been available only since October, 1950, but since that time seven projects have been completed and work has started on sixty-one others.

Will Be Need For More Men

These projects are divided among thirty-two countries and very widely. However, they deal mainly with agriculture, animal nutrition and forestry and they aim, in all cases, at improved living conditions. As more money becomes available the work will be expanded, and there will be need for more men to carry the service. So far, a number of governments interested in the work of the F.A.O., as well as universities and research centres in various countries have assisted in supplying qualified men. Five Canadian men are among the 215 experts which have been engaged in this work, but it is hoped that in the future more from the ranks of Canadian agricultural scientists and technicians will take part in this useful and important service.

Alberta Oil May Save $150,000,000 In U.S. Funds

(By Ed Hadley in Montreal)

WASHINGTON—Alberta oil may save Canada as much as $150,000,000 in U.S. funds next year, it was estimated here. That would be half of the cost of the Canadian total imports of petroleum products last year.

The estimate was made authoritatively by a Washington publication, the U.S. News and World Report, which recently sent an investigative team to tour the expanding oil fields.

His report said that "a new mile-post has been reached in the western Canadian oil boom," and forecast "stiff competition for American oil companies which—long have had a major share" of markets in Ontario and eastern Canada.

Canada last year imported $300,000,000 worth of oil products, it added, "mainly from the U.S. and Mexico." The U.S. and Canada will sharply cut down this tremendous drain on Canada's dollar resources. Estimates are that this oil bill will be cut in half next year.

The report said that Alberta oil, meeting requirements of the Prairie provinces, now is looking "for new fields to conquer."

It moves from Alberta fields to the Great Lakes by the pipe line which last year, it is related at Bama, Ont., and is being distributed as far east as Toronto, the report continued.

"Price of this oil is to undercut Texas oil in Ontario. Alberta production is being stepped up to meet the new demands."

"Canadian oil production as a whole will probably rise 25 or 30 per cent. this year over last. It is now about five times as large as in 1947. It is noted that Canadian reserves in Alberta already exceed 1,000,000,000 barrels, and that $150,000,000 was spent there in development last year."

Alberta oilmen also are eyeing the Pacific northwest market, the report continued. "U.S. Pacific northwest is a growing market for oil products, and the U.S. applied from California and Rocky Mountain oil fields."

"Canadian producers feel they compete in this market. The expensive pipe lines through the Pacific northwest make no sense. Aside from engineering difficulties, such pipe lines require huge quantities of steel. Since shipments will probably hold up any such projects for a time."

Forecasts Lower Railway Rates

MEDICINE HAT, Alta.—A Canadian Pacific railway vice-president said that lower railway rates are a future possibility.

Executive, D. B. Thomson of Winnipeg, in charge of the railway's prairie region, also forecast new rail routes, required from California and in remote areas where new resources are being developed.

Thomson, personally, has no reason why, with our railroads converted to the standards that we must have to meet modern requirements, lower rates may not again become a possibility," said Thomson.

"In the meantime sufficient revenues are necessary not only for the railway's good, but for the continuing good of every Canadian citizen."

Funny and Otherwise

Quakers as everybody knows, are gentle, calm folk. One swore one night to find a burglar in the house. With a gun in his hand, the Quaker went into the room where the nocturnal visitor was looting.

"Frieda," he said, "I would not harm thee nor any man in the world, but thou standest where I am about to shoot."

The burglar said:

"That's a pretty bird, grandma," said a little boy.

"Yes, grandma, never cries," replied the old lady.

"That's because he's never wanted to be shot," replied the young man.

Boas: "Do you know what business of boys who don't let the truth?"

"Yes," he said. "You send them out as f-tellers."

"Morning, nurse," said the jolly park-keeper.

"Wrong!" she replied, continuing to push her pram along. "Owner's driver."

"Have you ever noticed how a woman always lowers her voice when she's talking to a man?"

"Yes, and raises it when she doesn't get it."

"Anyone would think I was not doing a 'look in this house' the wife complained."

"Not after a couple of meals they wouldn't," her husband retorted.

"It's sickening the way my wife keeps talking about her first husband."

"You're lucky. Mine keeps talking about her next."

She: "I like that hat."

He: "Yes, I got it on your account."

A little girl came running up. "You generally do."

"That's right," Fatherly life unconscious out on the porch. He's got a slip of paper in his hand and there's a huge box there, too."

"How wonderful!" exclaimed the wife. "My new hat is here."

Shown her new baby brother for the first time, a little girl demanded to see his pockets.

"Well, he hasn't any yet," said her mother.

"Well," said the little girl, "I heard Daddy say the baby had brought five dollars a week with him."

Professor: "What would you just mention to a person who had taken hydroscopic studies?"

Missionary Student: "The sacrament."

Lady: "Can you give me a room and bath?"

Clerk: "I can give you a room madam, but you'll have to take your own bath." 2940

Manitoba To Get 200 Farm Workers

—From Germany

WINNIPEG.—Two hundred German farm workers will be coming to Manitoba under a provincial-sponsored plan to top the pool of experienced agricultural labor in West Germany, says F. C. Bell, minister of agriculture announced.

Until recently, this labor source has been available to Manitoba farmers because of restrictions which barred entry of German nationals into the country.

With removal of these restrictions and the operation of the federal government's assisted passage scheme, we had hoped," said Mr. Bell, "to encourage immigration from this high-favorable source."

"However, monetary restrictions and inconvertibility of German currency seemed at first to bar effective transportation of West German citizens to Manitoba."

The Manitoba government, he added, then proposed to advance the scheme's driving purpose (180 persons) to assist selected immigrants.

"This has been favorably received by the department of citizenship and immigration and an experimental selection of 200 immigrants has been authorized."

These men are expected to arrive by mid-August, in time for harvest. They will be committed to remain in farm employment for a two-year period until their "probation" to both governments is liquidated."

Mr. Bell stressed it was of "utmost importance" that permanent immigration be made available to immigrants and that "such conditions and terms be offered to the farmers as will induce them to remain."

Notification of this plan has been sent to all local agricultural representatives, says Mr. Bell, and a concerted effort will be made to place them permanently. If the experiment is successful, he added, it will be made to get additional immigrants.

Sugar Beet Acreage Up In Manitoba

WINNIPEG, Man.—Manitoba acreage seeded in sugar beets all year except five years ago, has increased over last year, figures released by H. D. Wood, director of publications for the department of agriculture, revealed.

This year's sugar beet acreage stands at 22,000 acres, a nine-per-cent. increase over the 1950 crop which yielded 150,000 tons.

Although rain is required, Mr. Wood said, farmers have taken advantage of the dry spell, and the fact that hay has thinned out half the sugar beet crops.

Canada is looking for another 1,000,000-ton crop of sugar beets, he said. Some 105,000 acres have been seeded in Manitoba, Alberta, Ontario and Quebec, slightly below last year's record of 108,000 acres.

Vast Chemical Boom Predicted For Alberta

WINNIPEG.—Vast "imminent" developments involving $50,000,000 in Alberta's chemical industry were predicted by J. E. Oberholzer, deputy minister of industries and labor for Alberta, in an address to the Canadian Chemical Association at the University of Manitoba.

"A number of current happenings are combined to bring about the decisions of various companies to expand chemical production in Alberta."

"The discovery and rapid development of the Alberta oil field is the key item," the deputy minister said. Some developments planned, he said, were:

1. A development by the Canadian Salt Company to produce approximately 20 tons of chlorine a day and 24 tons of caustic soda.

2. The Celanese Corporation of America plans to install the Canadian Chemical Corporation's Edmonton plant to produce cellulose acetate and various chemicals.

"The possibilities are great," Mr. Oberholzer said. "In front of us we have petroleum refineries, two plants based on hydrocarbons, two oil sulphur and one on salt."

We have facilities for synthetic fibres, caustic, chlorine and sulphur. We can envisage agricultural chemicals and pesticides, ammonia, detergents, plastics and pharmaceuticals."

This expenditure, he predicted, will extend Alberta's building and construction boom, a population in flux and increase, and in the future — a further change over from an agricultural to an industrial area.

MODERN MECHANIZED HELP FOR ACTIVE DUTY ON THE FARM FRONT

In the campaign for food, mechanical equipment is playing an increasingly important part. Machines enable fewer men on the farms to maintain and increase production.

As a result of the continuous research and experimentation by the agricultural implement industry, farmers today can get tractors, combines, and power machines that offer greater advantages in the saving of time and labor. In times of manpower shortage, modern equipment is especially essential in getting farm work done at the right time to produce best results.

For more than one hundred years, Massey-Harris has been a leader in developing machines that through service and efficiency contribute to the progress of Canadian agriculture. Your local Massey-Harris dealer, will be glad to give you particulars of the latest models.

Pie, Favorite of All Desserts

For centuries, pie has been famous in the world of food. Even our nursery rhymes and fairy tales taught us that pastry making was an important part of every woman's life. Remember "Little Jack Horner" and the "Four and Twenty Blackbirds." We can even go back to the time of Chaucer for the mentioned pie in his writings. Pie actually originated in England as a main dish of meats and food baked in a deep flask, brown crust.

Today, besides meat and vegetable pies we have that Canadian favorite, the dessert pie.

This being the beginning of the fruit season, the home economist of the consumer section, department of agriculture have sent the information about fruit pies, those bright red cherry ones and those luscious berry pies. Everyone would like to be a perfect pastry maker and everyone can be. It does not take good luck or years of experience. It merely takes four ingredients. Flour, shortening, salt, and water and care in putting them together. The home economist suggests that the "usual" combination of these four ingredients for one crust pie is one third cup of shortening to one cup plus two tablespoons of sifted flour or one cup sifted all purpose flour, one block of teaspoon of salt and about two tablespoons of cold water. The first thing to do in making pastry is to combine the shortening with the dry ingredients, less moisture with just a little water as possible that is, use only enough water to hold the dough together. If possible, allow the dough to chill a short time in the refrigerator before rolling. Roll the pastry out on a pasting board which has a piece of canvas or waxed paper on top. Never roll the dough too much. A hot oven to bake the pastry to its peak, a necessity. If these directions are followed, anyone should have flaky, golden pastry. Most fruit pies are very juicy and need a thickener to keep the juice from running over in the oven. Either flour, corn starch or gelatin may be used as thickeners. For berry pies the usual proportions are 4 tablespoons of flour or 2 tablespoons of corn starch or 2 1/2 tablespoons of gelatin, for each pie. Often the juices of these pies, even though thickened, tend to bubble over in the oven. If it is the case, a small funnel of paper, or a paper straw or a few long sticks of macaroni inserted into the filling will help prevent bubbling.

Pie, when properly baked, should be nicely browned so that nothing extra is needed to make the crust attractive. However, for those who prefer a shiny, glazed crust, the home economist suggests four ways of accomplishing this. First of all, egg white slightly beaten and brushed over the top of the crust before baking gives a beautiful glaze. A little granulated sugar sprinkled on top also makes a crust glisten. Expatriated milk brushed on the crust before baking produces a brown shiny crust and cream, top milk, ice water or salad oil will give the same effect.

CARD OF THANKS

Our recent loss leaves us with grateful hearts towards neighbors and friends. Their comforting expressions of sympathy and thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

CARD OF THANKS

May we take this method of thanking our neighbors and friends for their kind expressions of sympathy in our recent bereavement. These expressions have been deeply appreciated.

In this age of putting values upon everything it is often common to find that has not escaped. Officials have issued a statement declaring the ordinary common cold is one of the most "formidable" enemies to public health. Colds take more dollars and cents out of everyone's pocket in one year than any other sickness. They are responsible for a greater loss of time from school and work than any other single cause.

It has been calculated a few families in the country spend ten cents a day more on its necessity buying. It would add $300,000,000 a year to our total business. We spend our extra ten cents every day but apparently the rest of the crowd left the country down.

It happened on a week-end. As the party was breaking up I said goodbye to one of the guests, a good-faced, elderly man who had kept us laughing all through dinner and for several hours afterward. After he left, I asked my hostess, "Who is that man? He's the most entertaining man I've ever met." "Why I really don't know," she said. "He came to fix the furnace this morning, and he's been here ever since."

Doctor: Young lady, I'd like to give you a complete physical examination. "But Doctor Smith examined me last week and found me perfect." "So he told me."

The maid was indignant at being given notice for "flirting." "At any rate," she told her mistress, "I'm better looking than you. And how do I know? Because your husband told me and he said that I was a better lover than you."

"That's quite enough," said the lady of the house crushingly. "Oh, but I haven't finished yet," retorted the maid. "I'm a better kisser than you are. And do you want to know who told me?"

"If you are going to suggest..." "Oh, no, it wasn't your husband this time—it was the chauffeur."

The button is one of the oldest but most important of man's inventions. Think how we'd appear without it. The first true plastic was evolved in 1907. Naturalists have disproven the old belief that a snake will swallow its young if attacked.

Few men know the sleeve length of their shirts. More than one third of Canadian aluminum production, used domestically, finds its way into the construction trade.
